Our OFSTED inspection (October 2011) stated that:

'Eastwick Infant School continues to be a good school. It has some outstanding features. These are underpinned by the headteacher's unflinching vision for improvement, a nurturing ethos and the emphasis on the role of all staff in promoting extremely positive attitudes towards learning and high aspirations.' ... 'The Pupils' excellent personal development and their acquisition of a wide range of skills ensure they are very well prepared for the move to junior school.'

Data

National end of year expectations for the new national curriculum (2014) have been significantly raised in all areas. With a new curriculum, new assessment arrangements were introduced with the government removing a system of levels and replacing it with a system of met or not met end of key stage 1 / 2 expectations. This is very different from the previous 'best fit' model and has resulted in some children who struggle in only one area being judged as 'not met'. The Government has been clear in explaining that 'as this is the first year of the new assessments the results will look different from those of previous years and cannot be compared with them directly'.

Our data analysis shows that Eastwick Schools continue to be in line or above the national data in all areas.

Please note: All our data includes our children within our special needs centre. When excluded, the data increases by 4-5%.
